

Gildewerk Product news

June 2017

www.shop.gildewerk.com

Fragrances and colours are trend-sensitive. For the colouring of candles, we have – for many years – successfully used a system of core colours and often-varying, trend-based colours.

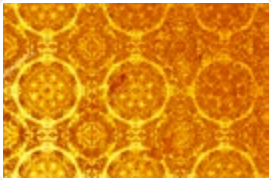

Now, we will also be applying this system to our ready-made soap bars. The bestselling versions are in the core range and the newest fragrances can be found in the trends series. We keep our range of perfume oils up-to-date by frequently adding new modern fragrances and discarding versions that are slow to sell.

In addition to trends, Gildewerk also keeps track of changing regulations in European Cosmetics legislation. We believe that 3- and 4- (4-Hydroxy-4-methylpentyl) cyclohex-3-ene-1-carbaldehyde (HICC, Lyrall) will soon be banned from cosmetic products. This is one of the allergens that can occur in perfume oil. We expect that, between now and 2 – 3 years' time, Lyrall will be barred from perfumes so that it is absent from commercially traded soap within 4 to 5 years. Lyrall will gradually disappear from our perfumes without any negative effects on their fragrance. This means that there is nothing to do on your part. We will make sure that you continue to comply with European requirements.

You will find slow-selling products in the special offers section of our webshop. 'While stocks lasts' applies to this section, because these products are heavily discounted to clear.
